Can sex toys, porn and virtual sex satisfy many of us so we do not go looking for love relationships or even sex relationships? We just do solo sex with toys and gadgets.

Probably not because human skin-to-skin contact has its own electrifying energy.

The emotion of romantic love, even if it only lasts a year or two among couples, is still pretty intense for that first year.

In order for a sex toy to replace human contact, somebody would have to create a human robot that:

- 1.) Looks beautiful.
- 2.) The skin feels human-like.
- 3.) The robot knows how to act loving and make complimentary conversation.
- 4.) The robot knows how to give and receive pleasure.

They're trying to sell that second life virtual world stuff but I still see a lonely guy looking at a screen, one hand typing, the other jerking off. It looks like something is missing.

Sex Toy Basics

Be aware upfront that some law enforcement agencies will prosecute you for contributing to the delinquency of a minor if your kids get a hold of your toys and somebody squeals on you so keep them locked up.

In some places, it's illegal to buy and sell sex toys:

Texas Penal Code § 43.23

Alabama Williams v. Pryor, 41 F. Supp. 2d 1257, 1261-1273 (ND Ala. 1999).

For hygienic reasons, wash them after each use.

Since sex toys are classified as novelties, there's no safety standard on them which means some sex toys are made of toxic chemicals and some break apart subtly while you're using them, these broken off pieces staying in your orifice. Silicon-made products are good but many of the others could be dangerous.

Using silicone-based lubricants on some sex toys will cause damage to their surfaces so use water-based lubes with sex toys.

Beware of using petroleum-based lubricants like Vaseline on your body parts because if they eat away at latex condoms releasing harmful toxins from the condom, by implication, I think it's bad for the body even though I have no scientific evidence to back me up.

There are plenty of safe lubricants on the market. Plain vegetable oil is good. It contains lots of vitamin e. You can even add some essences to it to give it flavor and a pleasant odor. Mix any vegetable oil or vegetable shortening with any brand of baby powder and you've got good, safe lube. Throw in a few drops of perfume or cologne if you want.

For some extra sensual fun, use SMALL doses of Vapo-Rub Ointment on various sensual parts of the body.

Probably the best sex toy I ever saw for straight sex between a man and a woman is a cock ring thing with a piece on top that vibrates via batteries. The guy puts it on and gets some stimulation by the vibrating of the ring and the girls gets stimulated by that piece on the top of the cock ring vibrating into her clit everytime he thrusts.

I saw this one expensive sex toy for women which was this little suction machine to put over the clitoris to stimulate it. It cost over $400. You might want a try a vacuum cleaner on your clit or any pump device with mild suction to get the same effect.

A chrome egg is an oval type thing you put into your vagina.

There are a lot of harnesses on the market through which a girl or even a guy could become temporarily endowed with a huge artificial cock.

Some people buy tit clamps and put them on their nipples for stimulation. It's something like piercing. Try clothespins or paper clamps from office supply stores.

There are remote-controlled butt plug vibrators on the market that you shove in your ass or someone else's then by clicking the remote, it vibrates.

Many people use lubricants to help enhance sex. You can use anything from corn oil to vaseline to mild shampoo. There are flavored gels on the market. The oil lubes can break latex down so the water and silicon based ones are better if you're using sex toys or a condom.

Clean Your Sex Toys Info

Clean your sex toys regularly. I'd say at least run it under warm water afte
