Two best friends compete in a major broadcast game show, using magic while trying to out-wit each other, hoping to turn the other into his ideal girlfriend forever.

In the not-too-distant future, humans began exploring space. On a beautiful Earth-like planet, they discovered a rare multi-colored crystal people started calling "auras." At first, these aura gems were just collector's items, used for jewelry and display. But then, quite by accident, someone discovered that these crystals contained magical energy -- and with the right focus and intention, they could be used to do nearly anything!

Quickly, the government enacted laws restricting use of aura by the general public "for their own safety." But for the right price, a license could be obtained -- and one entrepreneur genius came up with a game show idea using aura to help average, ordinary citizens find the love of their lives!

Even if that meant "re-creating" someone into your ideal lover.

Rick and Sam were best friends since high school. They did everything together. Even chased after many of the same girls. To settle it once and for all, they agree to battle each other on the game show, for the right to claim the girl of their dreams. But a twist removes the mutual love interest from the equation -- and suddenly they find themselves battling each other for survival and dominance. By the time the game is over, one of them will be the victor -- and the other will be his lusty new girlfriend, forever.
